

Angela Duncan, M.D.
Seth Eaton, M.D.
Reema Jalali, M.D.
Jill Rosenstock, M.D.

Ansu Punnoose, D.O.
Soma Mitra, M.D.
Meagan Lopes, CRNP
Kathryn Penn, CRNP
Deborah Davis, CRNP

March 18, 2020

Dear Patients:

Due to rapid spread of coronavirus (COVID-19) in the community and beyond, all MedPeds patients, healthy and immuno-compromised, are advised to telecommute and practice social distancing. Doing so will help tamp down the spread of this highly contagious and dangerous virus. This disease, if contracted, can be deadly, especially with advancing age and for patients with underlying medical conditions. If a younger person contracts COVID-19, they have lower risk themselves, but they put everyone else at risk.

We urge all employers to act responsibly and allow all employees who can to telecommute.

Feel free to print this letter and give to your employer, if needed.

Due to increased demand on our staff, we are unable to write unique letters for our patients regarding coronavirus risk.

Providers at MedPeds, LLC